

Shapes with Generous Proportions & Fine Craftsmanship from Rye&Lye.

March 2017

Stunning acetates and metal details for Rye&Lye's latest collection of eyewear at Mido 2017, with out-of-the-ordinary and attention-grabbing styles that are veritable masterpieces of Italian craftsmanship.

All Rye&Lye frames mix past and future with the sophisticated allure of their retrò shapes and use of innovative materials and leading-edge technologies, making these eyeglasses design objects true and proper, to be worn like works of art.

The 60s-inspired geometrical shapes are the absolute show stealers of the collection; in the Magnani frame for women, the front piece with its wide, rounded silhouette is framed by a gold-colored metal structure that enhances the style, creating an elegant movement on the temples too.

The Lollobrigida frame, in decorated acetate, with metal bridge, adjustable arms, and a cat's eye shape takes us back in time to that unmistakable 1960's movie star look.

A careful eye for detail and ongoing research into aesthetics make Rye&Lye eyewear a symbol of exquisitely crafted production and excellence.
